Make some cut-out letters (L, O, V, E) from cardboard and tape them on a white canvas (or piece of card). Make sure you use gentle tape, otherwise your white paper may rip when you peel the letters off later on.

Have finger-paint with various colours ready and paint using your fingers until the whole paper is full of colour.

It's really important to make sure that paint is applied along the edges of each letter. If too many white spaces are left by the edges, the letters won't look like letters when you lift off the stencils later.

After the paint dries, peel away the letters and there you have it, a beautiful work of art.
